May 14, 2006 (WLS) -- With hundreds of spas in Chicago there are plenty of treatments to choose from. Because there is increasing competition for your beauty bucks, more and more salons and spas are looking for ways to get you in the door. One solution is to offer services that might seem a bit far out. These are not your mother's spas anymore.

The beer pedicure at Chicago's Exsalonçe Spa promises to work wonders on the calluses of your tired tootsies.

"Beer has enzymes so we found that the enzymes soften the calluses and the hops moisturize the feet," said Tony Odisho, owner of Exsalonçe Spa. "We wanted to incorporate the male into our spa and bring them in and make them feel welcomed. We use about 24 cans per week. It's one of our most popular services we do here."

An added bonus of this foamy pampering is you get to finish off the brew.
